PRINCIPAL'S CORNER:

It's hard to believe school has already been underway for over a month! I wanted to take a moment to remind all of our families about the importance of good attendance. Parents and caregivers are critical partners in ensuring that children get to school on time and everyday.

- Even excused absences, if allowed to accumulate, can cause children to fall behind.
- Students with good attendance are much more likely to read and do math at grade level.
- If a student is 10 minutes late (or leaves early) to school each day, this adds up to missing more than 33 hours of class time.
- Picking up students early or arriving late can also disrupt the learning of everyone in the class.

What is good attendance? Aim for 97% which means missing no more than 5 days of school. We are here to partner with you and your children every day this year and watch them grow!
