

Who Am I?

My name is Jesse Hedrick. In 2009, while working for an ACT tutoring company, I noticed a disconnect between what students needed from the tutoring process and what they were receiving. So, I came up with a unique way of going about tutoring for the ACT that was more in line with what students actually need to learn to best prepare for the test and started my own one-on-one tutoring service.

The process is way more than just a simple presentation of the covered concepts. It is also a blend of how to study, how to recognize the concepts in their various packaging, pattern recognition, strategy and time management.

In the near decade since starting out on my own, I've used this process to help thousands of students achieve their testing goals and save millions of dollars through scholarships based on their test scores.
