

Subject	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday
ACCRS:	1.) Use models to compare and contrast how the structural characteristics of carbohydrates, nucleic acids, proteins, and lipids define their function in organisms.	1.) Use models to compare and contrast how the structural characteristics of carbohydrates, nucleic acids, proteins, and lipids define their function in organisms.	1.) Use models to compare and contrast how the structural characteristics of carbohydrates, nucleic acids, proteins, and lipids define their function in organisms.	1.) Use models to compare and contrast how the structural characteristics of carbohydrates, nucleic acids, proteins, and lipids define their function in organisms.	1.) Use models to compare and contrast how the structural characteristics of carbohydrates, nucleic acids, proteins, and lipids define their function in organisms.
Before		CPQ 6
During	Photosynthesis POGIL	Photosynthesis discussion	Photosynthesis leaf disk lab	FRQ 4	BM testing
After
Desired Outcome
Formative/ Summative					