► What is the Georgia Parent Mentor Partnership?

The Georgia Parent Mentor Partnership (GaPMP), an initiative by the Georgia Department of Education, supports school systems across the state in their efforts to promote family engagement in education. School systems that are members of the GaPMP hire a parent of a child receiving special education services in the role of Parent Mentor to be a local resource for families and educators.

Who Is The Parent Mentor?

My name is Renee Davis, and I am the Parent Mentor for Douglas County Schools. As a parent of a child who receives special education services, I understand the joys (and sometimes challenges) of parenting a child with special education needs. It is from this perspective that I provide information, support, and encouragement to families and educators.
