December 2, 2011

Hello and welcome to the great month of December! It seems like it was just November and here we are already into December. I can't believe it. We have had a fun week with lots going on in our room. We learned about a new letter, started a new math topic, added a new construction site to our room and enjoyed a fun play at Franklin Elementary.

The children were so excited when they entered the room Monday and saw our new "construction site". We added overalls, gloves, tools belts, lots of tools and hard hats. There are also many different blocks to build with and a work bench for them to work on. The children have been busy building "skyscrapers" and "houses" with the different blocks. Be sure to ask your child about our construction unit.

The children also had a great time with our newest math unit on big, bigger, biggest and small, smaller, smallest. They were busy painting with different size brushes and using toys and objects in the room to compare sizes. At home, try using those vocabulary words to describe items around your house.

Thursday we took a trip to Franklin Elementary school to see a play on "bullying". The children really enjoyed the play and it was a wonderful topic for our children to learn about. As a class we now say "Are you a bully?" The children respond "No way!" "Do you want to be a bully?" "No way!" I really think the children are beginning to understand what it means to be a bully. Please take some time at home to talk to your child about being a bully and being a good friend.

Our holiday program will be next TUESDAY, DECEMBER 6th! The invitation the children made had the wrong date so please make note that it's Tuesday the 6th. The program is at the JHS auditorium and is from 7:00-7:45. There will be entertainment from the JHS Drumline, a performance from the Jacksonville J'ettes.

Have a great weekend!

Miss Jess
