

US History NTI Day 3

Suppose that you have stumbled upon a new found territory. You decide that you are going to start your own government and build a powerful nation that will one day lead the world. In order to inform people about your new country, create a brochure which illustrates and describes what type of government you plan to operate within you nation. Be sure to explain how it will function, who will lead, and how it will grow. This should be very informative and detailed.