STAFF RECOGNITION:

"Going the Extra Mile Award"

NOMINATION FORM:

Williamsburg Independent Schools is very fortunate to have Mrs. Joy Williams teaching in our district. In the classroom, she is a driven educator and expects the most of her students and herself. But it is her compassion for her students and the numerous hours spent outside of the regular school day that has led to her nomination for the "Going the Extra Mile" recognition. Mrs. Williams spends countless hours' conferencing with students and evaluating student Governor's Scholar Program (GSP), Rogers' Scholars Program, PEPP and other scholarship essays and applications. She navigates her students through numerous revisions and sometimes even complete rewrites. Just this year, I know she has helped at least four and maybe even more of our GSP applicants perfect their essays. Additionally, this year she has written at least two GSP recommendation letters which require much effort so that each student is recognized for their individualism. Her students appreciate her expertise while in Williamsburg High School, but they really appreciate her once they graduate and write their first essays in college. She truly deserves this recognition. Mrs. Joy Williams is a perfectionist and pushes her students to be the best they can be.

NOMINATION FORM:

Mrs. Joy Mack is a passionate educator. She has spent her entire professional career pushing students to learn and understand the importance of social studies and history and how they affect the here and now. She brings history to life with Hippie Day, teaching her students the Charleston and the like. Mrs. Joy Mack's passion for the subject matter is evidenced daily in her classroom, but it is her passion for her Yellow Jacket students and her Big Orange Spirit that are the reasons for her nomination for the "Going the Extra Mile Award." She spends numerous hours outside her regular school day supporting her students. Quite often you will see her donned in her orange hat, shirt or maybe even her boa at many Yellow Jacket events, but it is the less visible activities that really demonstrate her passion for her students. She spends numerous hours preparing for her AP lectures, writing recommendation letters for her students for various scholarship opportunities, motivating students to complete their service hours, and encouraging her students to leave Williamsburg High School with the confidence to succeed. Her impact on her students goes beyond the walls of Williamsburg High School. Her former students often come back to visit, and I suspect to thank her for the impact she made on their lives. Mrs. Mack certainly goes the extra mile for her students, and she will be missed when she retires this May.
