MISSISSIPPI READING FAIR GUIDELINES

The purpose of the Reading Fair Guidelines is to provide reading fair coordinators, students, and parents with directions for conducting and participating in a reading fair. These guidelines and forms must be used when submitting information for the regional and state level competitions.

This document includes:

- a brief history of the reading fair,
- guidelines for creating award-winning reading fair projects,
- judging rubrics and permission forms to use at all levels of competition, and
- checklists for completing a story board.

History and Goal

The Mississippi Reading Fair originated at the Mississippi Department of Education in 1998. The purpose of the competition was to provide students in grades K-12 the opportunity to share their favorite fictional book through a storyboard display. The implementation of the Common Core State Standards (CCSS) places an emphasis on students reading complex texts at each grade level. CCSS also places value on reading informational texts. The goal of the Reading Fair is to enhance and encourage reading at all grade levels and to allow students to collaborate with their peers. Ultimately, as a result of participating in this process, students will experience a deeper enjoyment from reading and develop a lifelong love of reading. There are four levels of competition: school, district, regional, and state. Only first place winners in each division proceed to the next round of competition. Over 1,200 students compete regionally each year. This is significant because these students represent the several thousands of students who compete at both the school and district levels. The Mississippi Department of Education strives to motivate all students to read as they soar towards excellence.
MISSISSIPPI READING FAIR GUIDELINES
Sponsored by the Mississippi Department of Education
Office of Curriculum and Instruction

These guidelines have been established to create a uniform procedure and provide forms for school, district, and regional level reading fairs. Note: All forms must be used when submitting first place winners to the next level of competition. All students must have a signed photograph/video permission form (Appendix I) on file at the school/district prior to each level of competition.

Competitions

- Only the first place winner of each division at the school level will advance to the district level. District Reading Fairs may be held as early as October 31, District Reading Fairs must be completed and all information submitted to the regional site no later than January 31. The first place District Reading Fair winners in each division will advance to one of the regional reading fairs at a location to be determined by the Mississippi Department of Education. Regional fairs will be scheduled during February-March. Regional competitions must be completed and all information submitted to the Mississippi Department of Education no later than April 1. Online regional competition registration details will be provided at a later date. The first place regional winner in each category will advance to the State Reading Fair, which will be scheduled on the third Tuesday in April each year in Jackson, MS.

- Each school district may be represented by only one project of each division (A-N) at the Regional Reading Fair.

Categories

- Individual Fiction: Grades K-12 (Divisions A-G)
- Individual Non-Fiction: Grades 3-12 (Divisions H-J)
- Group/Family: Grades PreK-12 (Divisions K-N)

Please pay close attention to all categories listed in Appendix A: Mississippi Reading Fair Categories.

- Students in grades 3-12 have the opportunity to share their favorite non-fiction book. All students deciding to do so are to compete in the Individual Category, within their specified grade group (Divisions H-J). All other entries should only represent fictional books.

  Note: Remember the school’s librarian is an excellent resource for determining if the book selected is indeed fictional. Please see Appendices B–D for clarifying information on both text types.

- Family division projects should portray a book appropriate to the age of the student(s). The student(s) should be very knowledgeable about the book’s story elements and should have an active part in the construction of the display. Individual and group categories will be judged closely on whether the project shows work appropriate for the age level of the student.

  Note: Each student is limited to participating in only one project. Each group/family project is limited to 3 participants. If a group or family project has students in various grades, the project should be placed in the division of the oldest student.

Storyboards

Size

- A standard tri-fold project board that unfolds to be 36” H x 48” W.

  Note: Boards should be full-sized and not exceed the approved height and width guidelines. Boards that do not meet the size requirements will be disqualified, even if they proceed to the state-level competition. See Reading Fair Step-by-step guide for examples.

Display/Safety

- Use the checklists (Appendices E-F) as a guide for creating the project.

- Identifying information (name of the student(s), category and division, student’s grade level, homeroom teacher’s name, school and district name) should be labeled on the back of the storyboard. If any identifying information is placed on the front of the storyboard, the project will be disqualified.

Revised August 2014
• An Accommodations form must be on file for all students requiring additional adult supervision (See Appendix J).

• Storyboards should be colorful and interesting. Models, shadowboxes, and illustrations that fit in the middle of the display are allowed. The total project should not exceed the width, depth or height of the standing display board (approximately 36” W x 14” D x 36” H). There can not be items protruding from the back or top of the board.

• No items should hang over the edge of the table or be placed on the floor. However, students may hold or wear items that coordinate with the project, if desired. Items used for the project are not to be alive, valuable, or dangerous.

  Note: No object may extend beyond the height, depth, or width of the board.

• Items on the boards may be handwritten or typed. Younger students may require assistance in writing, typing, spelling, cutting, etc. This is permissible and part of the learning process; however, if a student of any age has extensive assistance, please enter the project in the group/family category for grades PreK-2 or 3-5 (Division K-L).

  Note: Storyboard content should match the age, grade level, and ability of the students presenting the project. Students do not have to bring or display the book during the competition.

• Students and teachers are encouraged to accompany their projects throughout all levels of competition; however, the student’s presence is not required. All projects will be fairly judged regardless of the student’s attendance.

  Note: Only students may present the projects during the judging - even for the group and family projects. If a student needs accommodations, please submit the form included in Appendix J: Students Needing Accommodations Form.

• Projects must be able to withstand several levels of competitions to prevent the student from rebuilding the project at each level. The intent of this competition is for the same project to be judged at different levels.

• Electrical cords are not allowed at any level of competition due to the potential danger they pose in the aisles.

Characteristics of Fictional Text

Definition:
A story from a writer’s imagination

2 Forms

Short Story
Can be read in one sitting and explores one topic

Novel
Has longer and more complicated plot

4 Main Components

Plot
The sequence of events within the story

Characters
The people, animals, or imaginary figures within the story

Setting
When and where the story takes place

Theme
The main message of the story

Note:
- Biblical stories are considered fictional only when the characters are non-human and personify (portray) human characteristics (e.g., Veggie Tales).
- Students competing in the fictional category may present a short story.
Understanding Non-Fictional Text

The first component of non-fiction is genre. Genres of non-fiction can be identified by one single factor: the intent or purpose of the writing. On the other hand, genres of fiction blend together. For instance, a fantasy story can have characteristics of an adventure story, but not all adventure stories are fantasies. Genres of non-fiction are more clearly defined than fiction. They explain the intent of the author or the purpose of the material.

The six main genres of non-fiction are:

1. Instructional: Describes how something is done or made.
2. Explanatory: Tells what happened or how something works, with defined reasons.
3. Report: Tells how things are discovered.
4. Discussion: Looks at both sides of an idea and makes a decision.
5. Opinion: Decides on a point-of-view and has reasons to support the view.
6. Relate: Retells the information or events for an audience.

Students should be aware of the variety and format of the structures of non-fictional text. Some structures or formats of non-fiction can be seen within a variety of text. For example, a speech can be instructional, explanatory, a report, an opinion, or a discussion. On the contrary, a recipe is considered instructional. This is one thing that makes non-fictional text so unique. The structure can take on different tones and formats depending on the author’s intent.

Students may select from the following non-fiction formats to complete reading fair projects:

- Autobiographies
- Biographies
- Book/movie reviews
- Consumer Reports articles
- Debates
- Editorials
- Essays
- Interviews
- Journals
- Observations
- Presentations
- Proposals
- Reports
- Speeches

Note: There are primarily three types of connections students can make while reading: text-self, text-text, and text-world. When making a text-self connection, students are often reminded of some event that occurred during their life or make a connection between an event they have participated in that is similar to that in the story. In text-text, students are reminded of another piece of written material that is similar to the story they are reading. In text-world, students relate the events in the book to a current event.
