EFFORT

Tips to help your child learn the importance of effort:

1. Praise effort rather than success.
2. Praise improvement.
3. Don't give too much praise. It's important for children to feel they've earned their success.
4. Too many rewards don't work. Your child needs to feel that a reward is deserved.
5. Don't help too much. If you give your children too much help, they can't take credit for what goes right.
6. Don't be too sympathetic when your child fails. Too much sympathy may send the message that you don't believe your child could have done better.
7. Don't compare what other children do. Focus on how hard your child tries.
