Tim Tebow couldn't get any playing time last season when the New York Jets had three quarterbacks on the roster. Following the selection of Geno Smith last week, they had six. Well, now they have five. Tebow was informed Monday morning when he arrived at the team's facility he'll be waived. Teams will have until 4 p.m. ET Tuesday to put in claims for him. Tebow's NFL career is now in major jeopardy, unless of course he accepts a role as anything other than a quarterback. As he hunts for a new team, Tebow has an offer on the table from the Orlando Predators of the Arena Football League. Last month, owner Brett Bouchy, sensing this moment would be coming, made his pitch to the popular quarterback via the Orlando Sentinel

Jason Aldean Files for Divorce

By Melody Bailey

Just before their 12th wedding anniversary, Jason Aldean and Jessica Ussery's marriage has ended. This occurs after Aldean was caught kissing "American Idol" alum Brittany Kerr. The US weekly can confirm that Ussery has officially filed for divorce. Aldean told US weekly in a statement about the divorce. "This is a really tough time for my entire family. Jessica and I have been together since we were teenagers. We've been through a lot of ups and downs over the years as we grew up together as a couple. She will always be important to me because she is the mother of my children, and I know that we will both always make our daughters our No. 1 priority." Apparently, the couple was having problems in their relationship before the break. The two will work together to raise their children. Newborn baby girl found abandoned on Hawaii beach

A newborn baby girl was found abandoned on a beach in Hawaii, according to reports. The 8-pound child was “abandoned immediately after birth,” state Department of Human Services Director Patricia McManaman said, according to the Star Advertiser newspaper. She was found just before midnight on Sunday. McManaman said the girl was “doing quite well” and drinking formula, HawaiiNewsNow.com reported. Both reports said the child was found on Sandy Beach by a 21-year-old woman, who took her to a local medical center. The woman is not a suspect, according to police. The mother has not been identified, HawaiiNewsNow.com said. Jonathan Kamai, a Sandy Beach regular, told the website that he was glad “the child had an angel that came and helped her out.” “It would have to be something tragic for someone to just leave their newborn here,” he added. “Just as a father, how somebody could actually just do that kind of stuff – it's just crazy.”

Field Day

MHS will be having their annual field day on Thursday May 9th at 12 pm. Each grade will have a signup sheet provided by a teacher, and sack lunches will be provided by the cafeteria. Mrs. Yates suggests the student body bring a hat, towel, sunglasses, & sunscreen. Maybe even a lawn chair for those who choose to relax and watch the games. Some of the events that will take place on Thursday are the egg toss, long jump, obstacle course, 50 yard dash, 100 yard dash, water balloon toss, & a tug of war. So students get your game faces on and your sunblock out 2013 MHS field day is right around the corner.
