

WHERE MONTANA BEGINS

We're Bitterroot Valley Education Cooperative, a full-service educational cooperative providing special education related services and mental health services to six school districts in Western Montana. Our headquarters is in the town of Stevensville, which was the first permanent settlement in the state, but we service an area covering about 50 miles in the heart of the Bitterroot Valley in Western Montana. Our local communities are tight-knit and friendly, with farmer's markets, museums and theatres, retail shops, restaurants and cafes, and dozens of home-based businesses and cottage industries. If you're an individual who wants to join a close community working to improve the lives of our children through superior educational opportunities, then we'd like to talk with you.
