Another month is in the books this school year, and we are ready to soar into March. As we move into the final grading quarter of the school year, I would like to encourage everyone to finish strong. Please continue to focus on effective communication in an effort to maximize student success. Warming temperatures will be accompanied by even busier schedules, and it is imperative that we communicate positively and effectively with each other.

Ensuring Safety for our Students

Recent tragic events have caused all of us to reflect upon the safety measures of the Breckinridge County School District. One aspect of ensuring student safety in the school district is centered on relationships. Do all children attending the Breckinridge County School District have at least one trusted adult he/she can rely on? If not, then we must act accordingly to address that. The adolescent years for all children are challenging and confusing. Research shows that children who attend schools where they have at least one trusted adult are happier, healthier, and more successful academically. I would like to encourage everyone to talk with your child about their school experiences and find out if he/she has a trusted adult there. If not, contact your child's school immediately, and we will work to address this. Our children need the same strong relationships in their school lives with adults as they do at home with their parents/guardians. In addition, I want to encourage all of our children to report any and all bullying, suspicious, or dangerous behavior in their schools. Providing a safe, nurturing, and positive learning experience is vitally important to the future success of our children.
