

Hurley Students Become Published Authors

Each year Creative Communications works with schools and teachers promoting student writing. For the past six years, the students in Charlotte Ashby's Language Arts class have written and submitted a poem to be considered in Creative Communication's Fall Poetry Contest.

This year, 2018, twenty-six of her students were accepted for publication in Creative communication's hardcover anthology. This is not a contest that publishes every entry, so it is an honor to be accepted and published in the book.
