Sandra loved horses. She would draw pictures of horses all the time.	12
She liked to read stories about horses, and she loved watching horse movies.	25
However, she had never met a real horse. At least, not until the time she	40 went to the county fair. It was late in July. School had already been out for	56 almost two months. Sandra and her family went to the county fair together.	69
Her brother wanted to ride the roller coasters. Her mother wanted to see	82 the flower displays. Her father wanted to play a few games. He wanted to try	97 to win prizes. But all Sandra wanted to do was go see the animals.	111
She knew there would be animals at the fair. She had seen pictures of	125 them on the posters hanging up around town. The posters showed big milk	138 cows and fat pink pigs. They showed fluffy white sheep. They also showed	151 roosters with fancy tail feathers. But Sandra did not want to see any of	165 these animals. She wanted to see the horses that the poster showed. Big	178 horses, small horses, fancy horses, plain horses. She wanted to see them all!	191
Sandra was so excited when they got to the horse barns. For the first time	206 in her life, she got to meet real horses. She loved the velvet softness of	221 their noses and how carefully they moved when she stood outside their stalls	234 looking at them. She knew when she grew up she would have a horse of her	250
own.	251
