The second graders were extremely excited! They were going on a	11 field trip to the city zoo. After the teacher took morning attendance,	23 they lined up to get on the bus. Everyone got seated and the bus took	38 off. After an hour they finally arrived at the zoo. The boys and girls	52 scrambled off the bus. They entered the zoo gates and headed toward	64
the animals. They saw massive elephants with long trunks. The elephants	75 were munching on peanuts! They saw monkeys climbing in trees. The	86 monkeys howled so loudly that some students covered their ears. They	97 saw alligators peeking out of a pond. The boys and girls were glad that a	112 fence kept them a safe distance from the hungry alligators! The second	124 graders even saw a kangaroo with a baby in its pouch. The zookeeper told	138 them that a baby kangaroo was called a joey. It was so small and cute!	153
Many of the students had never seen such animals before. They wrote	165 about the animals in their journals and drew pictures of them too. They	178 did not want to forget what they had seen!	187
Back at school, the students talked about the fieldtrip to the zoo.	199
They shared their greatest memories of the day. Some read entries from	211 their journals. Others showed their drawings of the animals. Their	221 teacher asked them to vote on their favorite zoo animal. Almost every	233 one of the students voted for the baby kangaroo. They all thought that it	247 had been a super day!	252
