Randolph County Schools Internal Campaign: 100 Children Challenge

February 15 through March 18, 2016

Randolph County Schools is organizing an internal campaign for employees to sponsor children for Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library (DPIL). The money raised will put books in the hands of children throughout Randolph County.

What is Dolly Parton's Imagination Library?

DPIL brings books to children’s homes. From birth until they turn five years old, children enrolled in the program receive a new, age-appropriate book mailed to their home each month. By the time they enter kindergarten, children will have their own library of books and be more prepared to enter school and become readers.

The Randolph County Partnership for Children administers the program to children in Randolph County.

Here’s how it works:

- The campaign will run from February 15 - March 18 (All donations need to be received by March 21.)
- School Counselors will collect checks at each school. Make checks payable to: Randolph County Partnership for Children. Or, you can give through the Partnership’s website: www.randolphkids.org
- A Randolph County Schools representative will announce the total number of children sponsored by RCS at the Partnership’s Gala for the Children on Saturday, April 9.

Examples of ways to give:

The cost to sponsor a child is $30
- 1 staff member - $30 (or more)
- 2 staff members - $15 each
- 3 staff members - $10 each
