Jayme Updike Wood is a native of the North Carolina foothills. She grew up loving music, playing flute, piano, and of course, singing. Mrs. Wood attended The University of North Carolina at Greensboro (Go Spartans!), where she received a Bachelors of Music Education with a concentration in Voice, and a minor in Piano and Jazz Studies. She taught Chorus in North Carolina for ten years - seven of those at Southeastern Randolph Middle School - while also serving on the NCMEA Middle School Choral Directors Executive Board, before relocating to the Columbia, SC area for two years. While in Greensboro, Mrs. Wood was a member of Bel Canto Company, a professional choral group in the North Carolina Triad, under the direction of Dr. Welborn Young. She and her husband moved to Wilmington this past August, where she is the Chorus & Theatre Director at Myrtle Grove Middle School. Mrs. Wood is also the Junior Mixed Chorus Conductor for The University of North Carolina at Greensboro Summer Music Camp. In her free time, she enjoys traveling the world with her family, friends, and pets, as well as kayaking.

Dr. Melodie Galloway is a Professor and Chair of the Department of Music at the University of North Carolina at Asheville, where she is the Coordinator of Choral and Vocal Studies. She holds a Master’s degree from Florida State University in Vocal Performances and a Doctor of Musical Arts degree in conducting from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Her experience as a conductor and soprano soloist includes major works, opera and musical theater. In 2012 she was an invited conductor at Carnegie Hall, leading 200 singers and orchestra and in 2017 she conducted the Eastern European premiere of Dan Forrest’s Requiem for the Living with choirs and orchestra in Vienna, Prague and Salzburg. Areas of research include: choral pedagogies for vocal health; jazz and classical idioms in choral/orchestral works and community engagement through arts advocacy. She is in demand as a clinician, conference presenter and panelist.
