Donuts, dads and sweet together time

By Debbie Hightower

TRINITY — A festive continental breakfast was provided for dads and students at Trinity Elementary School’s Donuts for Dads held Dec. 2 in the school cafeteria.

Options differed somewhat from the usual breakfast fare.

“Would you like plain, chocolate frosting or sprinkles?” asked Principal Kim Bowie, indicating a dozen or so choices on the menu.

Helping serve donuts, juice and coffee were Trinity elementary staffers Debbie Dennis and Kirsty Hughes, along with PTA volunteers Courtney Rabon, Marsha Jarrett and Ashley Vickers.

“During the year we hold Donuts for Dads, Muffins for Moms and Gathering with Grands,” said Bowie. “It gives families an opportunity to visit the school and gives us an opportunity to get to know them.”

Members of the PTA sponsored refreshments for the event and even provided...
Mike Baxter bites into a huge donut along with Johnathan Desouza-Finch.

Right: Carson and Wayne Frank put in an appearance at Donuts for Dads.

Ella and her dad Matthew Jones were among the first to take advantage of the Donuts for Dads photo booth.

Staff from Trinity Elementary served parents and students in the school cafeteria. From left, Debbie Dennis, Kirsty Hughes and Principal Kim Bowie.

If parent participation were an Olympic event, dads who attended Trinity Elementary School Donuts for Dads would all score a 10. Pictured here is Hannah with papa James Williams.

Mike Leonard, Matilda and Lucas selected identical breakfast options.

Raquelle was overjoyed to show up with her dad Armando Amaya.

Ella spent a few moments in the Trinity Elementary School cafeteria enjoying sweet treats with her dad Michael Harmon.

Above: Dad Tommy Poland felt that spending a few extra minutes with Molly was an enjoyable way to spend the morning.

Tommy Poland was grateful for the opportunity to spend a few minutes in the cafeteria with his daughter Molly.

Mike Baxter bites into a huge donut along with Johnathan Desouza-Finch.

“Fathers play a critical role in the lives of their children,” he said. “Seeing all these dads in here with their kids is significant for our community. The brief time investment they make here will provide huge dividends later on. I love it!”

Staff writer Debbie Hightower may be reached at dhightower@atnonline.net or 336-888-3576.

If parent participation were an Olympic event, dads who attended Trinity Elementary School Donuts for Dads would all score a 10. Pictured here is Hannah with papa James Williams.

Mike Leonard, Matilda and Lucas selected identical breakfast options.

Raquelle was overjoyed to show up with her dad Armando Amaya.

Ella and her dad Matthew Jones were among the first to take advantage of the Donuts for Dads photo booth.

Noah and Rodney Wagoner gave a dramatic flair to their photo booth poses.

Satisfied diners included David Shue with daughters Constance, left, and Makenzy.

Ella spent a few moments in the Trinity Elementary School cafeteria enjoying sweet treats with her dad Michael Harmon.

DONUTS
FROM THE FRONT PAGE
photo opportunities for dads and students at a photo booth featuring a giant inflatable donut.

Tommy Poland was grateful for the opportunity to spend a few minutes in the cafeteria with his daughter Molly.

“Fathers play a critical role in the lives of their children,” he said. “Seeing all these dads in here with their kids is significant for our community. The brief time investment they make here will provide huge dividends later on. I love it!”

Staff writer Debbie Hightower may be reached at dhightower@atnonline.net or 336-888-3576.

If parent participation were an Olympic event, dads who attended Trinity Elementary School Donuts for Dads would all score a 10. Pictured here is Hannah with papa James Williams.

Mike Leonard, Matilda and Lucas selected identical breakfast options.

Raquelle was overjoyed to show up with her dad Armando Amaya.

Ella and her dad Matthew Jones were among the first to take advantage of the Donuts for Dads photo booth.

Noah and Rodney Wagoner gave a dramatic flair to their photo booth poses.

“Fathers play a critical role in the lives of their children,” he said. “Seeing all these dads in here with their kids is significant for our community. The brief time investment they make here will provide huge dividends later on. I love it!”

Staff writer Debbie Hightower may be reached at dhightower@atnonline.net or 336-888-3576.