Poe takes part in Explore STEM

TRINITY — This summer, Micah Poe from Trinity, joined outstanding middle school students from across the nation this summer to take part in Explore STEM.

Explore STEM is one of the Envision family of programs (www.envisionexperience.com) that enable students to explore their interests and experience learning beyond the classroom.

Poe was nominated to attend the program by his fifth-grade teacher at Hopewell Elementary School, based on his performance in the academically and creatively gifted program.

The week-long camp, hosted by Wake Forest University, gave students the opportunity to work with Poe the unique opportunity to work in math or science, to pursue a career in science. With dreams and creative interests, he was able to work on real-world, interactive learning opportunities to work on real-world, real-life problems.

Several inches of rainfall saturated the Archdale-Trinity area, saturating the ground and contributing to flood-like conditions. According to Allred, the water rose suddenly and then dissipated almost as quickly. This guy waded out into waist-deep water last week. He didn't have a whole lot to lose. He had a whole lot to lose. He said, “I'm not going to know how to act.”

He didn't go into that kennel, all of them would have died. It meant a whole lot to me. It blessed me real good.”

The Archdale City Council is comprised of a mayor, a pair of at-large council members and four ward members. Causey has been part of a group of city officials who have overseen several landmark economic development, infrastructure changes and enhancements to Creekside Park. The city has grown in size, and now has a population of more than 11,000 people.

The Archdale City Council has been on the Archdale municipal election ballot since 2012. Causey may be reached at dhightower@atnonline.net. Staff writer Debbie Hightower can be reached at 336-888-3578, or at dhightower@atnonline.net.
