About Randolph County

Gently rolling hills, river valleys, and forest land characterize Randolph County’s 790 square miles. It is the 11th largest county in North Carolina and has the 19th highest population in the state. The towns of Archdale, Asheboro, Franklinville, Liberty, Ramseur, Randleman, Seagrove, Staley and Trinity are located within Randolph County with Asheboro being the county seat. Asheboro is approximately 70 miles from Raleigh, the state capital, and from Charlotte, the state’s largest city.

Randolph County is a part of the Piedmont Triad region, a 12-county area whose central location puts it within 90 miles of the Blue Ridge Mountains to the west and within 200 miles of the Atlantic Ocean to the east. The county sits in the middle of the Eastern Seaboard, within 500 miles of half of the nation’s population and largest markets. The region is united by the Piedmont Triad International Airport, interstate highways, a score of colleges and universities, and a rich cultural life.

Although Randolph County is only 10 years old, it has come a long way in the past 10 years. The county has made great strides in improving its schools, and the results are evident in the higher graduation rates and test scores. The county has made significant investments in new schools and facilities, and has also increased the number of teachers.

The Randolph County School System (RCSS) is a public school district in central North Carolina, comprising 31 schools and 15,882 students. RCSS is made up of seventeen elementary schools, six middle schools, one 6-12 school, and seven high schools (six traditional, one early college).

Our Mission

Maximize educational opportunities for every student by focusing on continuous improvement and having high expectations for students and staff, while preparing students for multiple options to be competitive in a diverse 21st century global society.

Our Vision

Maximize educational opportunities for every student, based on our beliefs that: All students can learn; All students will be taught in a safe and nurturing learning environment; All students deserve a teacher who is qualified and well-prepared; All students deserve access to instructional resources managed in a fiscally responsible manner; and All stakeholders share the responsibility and accountability for student learning.

Our Strategic Plan - “Path to Pride”

1. Implement an instructional program that results in academic growth for all students at all levels of student achievement while also working to close/eliminate the achievement gaps.
2. Use all school system financial resources in a fiscally responsible manner at all times.
3. Hire, organize, retain, and develop a high-performing staff in all areas of the school system.
4. Maintain efficient/effective operations throughout the school system.
5. Implement an effective public relations program for the school system.
