The Randolph County School System is proud to recognize Trinity Elementary School and Randleman Middle School as Signature Schools for the 2017-2018 school year.

Each year, the Piedmont Triad Education Consortium (PTEC) honors schools from sixteen districts throughout our region that have exemplified excellence and experienced significant improvement in the last twelve months. Designated as Signature Schools, these schools will be recognized at the annual Signature Schools Award Breakfast on Friday, December 8, 2017, on the UNC-Greensboro campus.

Some indicators that apply to a Signature School include:

- A school that has implemented innovative practices to increase the academic achievement of all students

- A school that has documented increases in measurable outcomes

- A school in which positive change is not merely affecting one classroom or grade level, but is widespread (systemic) throughout the school

- A school in which the overall quality of teaching has continued to improve as measured by observations, peer evaluations, student feedback, parent comments, etc.

- A school that has successfully engaged the support of parents and the community to accomplish the school’s goals

Trinity Elementary School has exceeded growth for four consecutive years, while ranking in the top 10% of the state in student growth in the 2016-2017 school year. From the 2012-2013 school year to the 2016-2017 school year, Trinity Elementary School’s proficiency scores have grown from 38.4% to 63.5%.

Randleman Middle School’s proficiency scores have grown from 36.4% in the 2012-2013 school year to 51.3% in the 2016-2017 school year.

Congratulations to these two schools for this outstanding achievement.
