"Letting Go of the Past"

Let go of the past so that God can open the door to your future.

Each time a new year begins, we always wish and pray for ourselves a better life ahead. To be able to achieve that, we know that we need to make some life changes. While there are situations outside us that we cannot change, there are things within us that we can. Many people, however, are unable to start off the year on the right foot—finishing the year without attaining any of their resolutions because of one thing: holding on to the past. There is a saying that goes, “Hindsight is 20/20.” But rather than using such an expression as an inspiration to “move on” after having an apparent understanding of the past, the “coulda, woulda, shoulda” becomes a heavy emotional and mental baggage to those who are unable to let go. Usually, these people cannot stop blaming themselves for the mistakes and bad choices they made. Fixating on the past makes us unable to realize the good things we have now. Sometimes, the good thing is right in front of us; yet, we do not see it. We cannot appreciate things for what they’re worth. How we interpret our circumstances is far from what they actually are.

For Catholics, seeing things in light of our Faith is the way to move “past the past.” But it is something that the unbelievers of the Catholic Church and the unbelievers of God, the secular world, do not have. To John Calvin, for example, the person who founded Reformed Protestantism, one’s life was terrible because it was deserved. For him, God made two groups: the elect, chosen to show His mercy, and the damned, chosen to show His justice. It means that, according to him, if you are among the damned, you deserve it if someone hurt you. And worse, he said that God could do to you whatever pleased Him, because He is God, and what was to your disadvantage, could be advantageous to others. As for the unbelievers of God, they see things with their mere eyes, at face value alone. Some of them think that you have the right to hold on to your hatred and grudges against those who hurt you.

The secular world is about enjoying a hedonistic life. But it has many contradicting notions of how to live a good life. Its vision is clouded—the way it believes that forgiveness is conditional, that justice is eye-for-an-eye, and that people should do whatever they want. For example, the secular world would reason that a woman should get an abortion if she thinks it would “undo” her mistake of getting pregnant. But sooner or later, that mother would realize that the act only did further irreparable damage, for it took an innocent baby’s life and wounded her soul with severe grief, which was not obvious to her before. Secular people might think that they are “free,” but without true faith, the world will only cause them more emotional and mental pain. If you are one of those who desire a better life, but continue to see things the way that unbelievers and the secular do, you will remain stuck in the past, unable to live peacefully.

St. Catherine of Siena often spoke about the “light of most holy faith” in her letters. The light of most holy faith is what opens “the eye of the mind,” according to St. Catherine. This light makes us see things through the eyes of God. Under the light of most holy faith, if you were to look at those who hurt you, injured you, humiliated you, or did you an injustice, you would be able to see that from past to present, it is still the hand of God that drives your life. He very well saw and knew what was done to you in the past. It’s just that He allowed it to happen to you because, for one, He is purifying something in your life. When you resolve to let go of the past is when your emotional wounds will start to heal.

Perhaps God is purifying you, but you have not realized it yet. If you are still suffering from a hurtful past, like when people you cared for left you and those you loved let you down, or you are unable to recover from painful events in your life, look at these things now in the light of faith and your mind will be opened. God must be showing you the areas of your life, such as your beliefs, values or actions, which need to be corrected and purified. Once you identify what those are, and work on amending them with due diligence, your intense grief will turn into an immense grace.

From www.TheBestCatholic.com

Whether our unhealed wounds are caused by others, or by our own doing, it is dangerous to remain attached to the past. That's because when people are depressed and regretful of the past, they are tempted to become slothful in attending to not only their physical needs, but also to their spiritual needs. Having a dull or non-existent prayer life and skipping the Sacraments of Confession and the Eucharist could result from a distressed emotional state. And without spiritual graces, a better life becomes unattainable.

In God, we find rest. But for some reason, we refuse to give to Him our heavy burdens and try to carry them ourselves. The evil in the world pulls us to sin and to despair, but the Cross lifts us up from sin and frees us from despair. God wants us to accept the hurts in our past and present and place them at the foot of His Cross. Can't get over losing a romantic relationship? It's possible that God was actually saving you. It could be that the person was going to cause you to lose your Faith or leave the Church. It does not mean that just because a person was Catholic, he or she was capable of helping you gain Heaven. Can't get over losing missed job opportunities? It could be that line of work and the people around you there would have led you to sin.

Should we trust in God even when things get bad? Yes, definitely! The Scriptures, Church Tradition, the wisdom of our Church Fathers, and the visions of the Saints to whom Jesus and the Blessed Virgin Mary appeared all declare that God is the Divine Master to Whom we must entrust everything. Why are some practicing Catholics, who regularly pray and receive the Sacraments, unable to let go of the past? At times, they miss the graces that God is offering them. There are always graces given through the Sacraments, if received with the right disposition; but if one's disposition is to hold on to the past, no improvement will be seen. As truly practicing Catholics, we must fix our gaze on God—believing that Our Heavenly Father has a plan in our lives now and in the future! "For I know well the plans I have in mind for you, plans for your welfare and not for woe, so as to give you a future of hope. When you call me, and come and pray to me, I will listen to you. When you look for me, you will find me. Yes, when you seek me with all your heart, I will let you find me, and I will change your lot" (Jer. 29:11).

To understand God's work of fulfilling His will in our lives, and to fight against the temptation of being stuck in our hurtful past, we must see through our hearts, following what St. Paul said: "May the eyes of your hearts be enlightened, that you may know what is the hope that belongs to His call, what are the riches of glory in His inheritance among the holy ones" (Eph. 1:18).

To conclude, here are the words of St. Catherine of Siena: "Prayer must not be far from you. Nay, on the due and ordered hours, so far as you can, seek to withdraw a little, to know yourself, and the wrongs done to God, and the largeness of His goodness, which has worked and is working so sweetly in you; opening the eye of your mind in the light of most holy faith, to behold how beyond measure God loves us; love which He shows us through the means of His Only Begotten Son."

Discover the "Epic" Story of the Catholic Church!
Experience Church History from a Catholic Perspective!

As Catholics, we are heirs to a remarkable heritage. The history of our Faith is so much more than a list of facts and dates. It is a fascinating story of adventure, rebellion, tragedy, and triumph. A story 2,000 years in the making is described best by one word: Epic.

"Epic: A Journey through Church History" is a captivating and fast-paced look at the story of the Catholic Church. Beginning with the lives of the apostles all the way up to almost-present day, Epic takes the immense history of the Church and simplifies it into twelve, color-coded time periods. In the course of twenty sessions, participants learn about the major people, places, and events that comprise the captivating story of Christianity. This Study provides participants with an understanding of Church history that enables them to have a greater sense of meaning and identity as Catholics.

Join us for "Epic: A Journey through Church History" in the Parish Meeting Room beginning on January 29, at 7:00 p.m., and continuing every Wednesday. Program fee is $30.00. For more information or to register for the study, contact Debbie Robles at 679-6370 or debrobles@me.com.
